Network Next (2021)

In 2020-2021, Metro Transit studied potential corridors for BRT. Planners created concept plans for ten corridors. Using public feedback, corridors were sorted into three tiers. The three tiers were near-term, mid-term, and longer term implementation. The Rice Street/Robert Street corridor was selected for near-term implementation as the G Line. In March 2021, the G Line was adopted by the Metropolitan Council into the 2040 Transportation Policy Plan. Learn more about Network Next.
